“I have worked in HR and know the challenges of benefits administration from first-hand experience. I recognize that benefits administration is one of the many responsibilities of an HR professional. My goal is to offer practical advice to help keep plans in compliance and avoid costly mistakes.”

Gena Gibson advises businesses, nonprofits, multiemployer plans, and governmental entities about the benefits they provide to employees. Gena is privileged to partner with great employers providing needed benefits to attract and retain the best employees. Gena assists employers on a variety of issues related to various employee benefit plans, including HIPAA privacy and portability, ERISA compliance, plan administration questions, service provider contracts, and drafting and amending plan documents. She also assists with qualified plan issues and reporting and disclosure requirements, such as Form 5500-series reporting and drafting participant notices.

Gena began her legal career at Miller Nash in 2002 as an associate. In 2007, Gena became the human resources director for her church’s regional headquarters, which involved caring for the employment and employee benefit administration needs of approximately 800 employees. After rejoining the firm in 2014, Gena has continued to blend her real-world experience in HR with her legal skill and acumen to help employers navigate the complicated world of employee benefits.
