“Through clear communication and practical advice, I strive to help clients achieve their goals in a manner that minimizes legal risk to a level that is proportionate to the potential benefits of the transaction. The relationships that I develop with clients are my work’s greatest reward. In large part, I measure my success by their success.”

Jonathon Goodling guides clients through commercial real estate and finance transactions. He provides advice on structuring complicated transactions and assists clients in negotiating and drafting real property and loan documentation. The largest sector of Jon’s practice involves representing national and regional banks on real estate secured loans. Jon also routinely assists developers, property owners, and governmental entities with leasing and purchases and sales of real estate, as well as lenders on non-real estate secured financings.
