“I believe a team approach to working on a case is invaluable and that communicating with a client to determine the best way to gather information is critical. Understanding a client’s industry and internal practices and procedures is not only interesting, but also the key to making informed decisions and to responding insightfully to their needs.”

Susan Van Meter joined Miller Nash in 2016. She has more than 25 years of experience as a litigation paralegal and has extensive experience in all aspects of the litigation process, including investigation of a new case, discovery (including electronic discovery), lay witness and expert witness identification, pretrial preparation, and trial presentation. Susan’s litigation experience extends to a range of industries and practice areas, including construction defect, employment law, personal injury, product (automobile) liability, maritime law, environmental law, and condemnation. She has served as the lead paralegal in multiple trials in state and federal courts in Washington.
