“I am committed to achieving client objectives as early and cost-effectively as possible. My clients, colleagues, and adversaries commend me for effectively prosecuting difficult and hotly contested matters while simultaneously laying the groundwork for resolution, if and when circumstances warrant it.”

Don Scaramastra focuses his practice on helping businesses—many in the transportation and natural resource sectors—resolve disputes, improve outcomes, and reduce risk across a variety of projects. He is well-versed in all forms of dispute resolution, outside the courtroom, through arbitration or trial, and before federal and state appellate courts.

Don has successfully represented clients on a range of large-dollar disputes, acquisitions, and other projects concerning insurance coverage and enterprise risk management, corporate governance and acquisitions, contract disputes, environmental cleanup and compliance, and antitrust compliance. Most recently, Don has assisted a number of businesses in the hospitality sector that are facing losses and disruptions relating to the COVID-19 pandemic.

Over his career, Don has assisted entities across an array of industries: marine, rail, trucking, air transportation, as well as various fisheries. Most of his clients began life in the Pacific Northwest, having long and storied histories here.

Certified as a Legal Lean Sigma White Belt, Don has devoted much of his career to improving internal legal project management and developing data-driven strategies that increase efficiency and boost productivity. He has helped create tools that better manage litigation, more accurately predict project costs, and achieve better outcomes. As a result, Don is often sought after to assist large or sophisticated businesses with multifaceted legal needs.

Don believes in the power and responsibility of lawyers to make the communities in which they live and work a better place. He has assisted with a number of pro bono matters seeking institutional change. Most recently, he helped win an injunction against suspending drivers' licenses for impoverished drivers.
