“Decades of commercial litigation and community mediation experience inform my arbitration practice. Analytical skills make me a quick study and help me reach the right result. Communication skills empower me to provide a flexible, supportive process. My commitment is to always be responsive, respectful and prepared.”

With more than 35 years’ experience as an advocate in complex commercial litigation matters, Estera Gordon now focuses on arbitrating business, real estate, franchise, financial, and consumer disputes. Her practice has included arbitration and mediation since 1991, and dispute resolution has been her primary practice area since 2016. She has been arbitrating with the American Arbitration Association (AAA) since 2010. Estera has served as arbitrator in close to 100 matters, encompassing a wide range of industries and relationships. She has substantial experience managing the arbitration process for represented and unrepresented parties.

As an advocate, Estera has represented lenders and borrowers, commercial landlords and tenants, real estate buyers and sellers, employers and employees, fiduciaries and beneficiaries, public agencies, landowners, contractors, and design professionals. She has significant experience in eminent domain, business, franchise, contract, and real estate litigation, and continues to provide strategic and substantive feedback to litigators in those practice areas.

Estera’s litigation practice concentrated on legal and factual analysis, case strategy evaluation, dispositive motions and briefs, trial support, and appellate representation. She continues to contribute those talents to the firm, acting as a research and writing coach for the firm’s newer litigators, and providing advice and editing on dispositive, trial, and appellate motions and briefs.
