“I take my role as a client’s advocate seriously. I focus my representation on developing, understanding, and accomplishing the clients’ objectives through the most efficient means. I believe considering every available avenue, including litigation, is the best approach to achieving a client’s goals.”

Lorien Giles joined the firm in October 2021 as an associate in the litigation department. He assists clients in all stages of litigation, from pre-litigation strategy, discovery, depositions, and decisive motions practice. He has worked with individual and executive clients as well as businesses from diverse industries, including consumer products, healthcare, entertainment, professional services, technology, and cannabis.

Before joining Miller Nash, Lorien was an associate at a litigation boutique firm in Los Angeles, California where he worked on complex commercial disputes, such as corporate buyout disputes, fraudulent claims act and qui tam actions, film production disputes, in-house counsel malpractice, Consumer Financial Protection Bureau disputes, and numerous high profile individual civil actions.

While at UCLA, he worked as a research assistant focusing on amicus briefs before the U.S. Supreme Court, engaged in mock-trial competitions, and worked as a law clerk in the Los Angeles County District Attorney’s Office.
