

Abigail L. Yeo

Associate

☎ 503.205.2372 📍 Portland Office
✉ abigail.yeo@millernash.com

“The relationship between a lawyer and client is a collaborative partnership built on trust and understanding. My commitment to providing attentive and straightforward communication, backed by my experience assisting clients through complex legal challenges, ensures effective advocacy and peace of mind.”

Abigail Yeo focuses her practice on commercial litigation and regulatory counseling. She has experience representing a wide range of clients in matters involving product liability, compliance with state and federal regulations, contract disputes, and government investigations. She has also assisted with handling discrimination claims brought under the Americans with Disabilities Act, Rehabilitation Act, and the First Amendment.

Abby joined Miller Nash after clerking for Judge Youlee Yim You at the United States District Court for the District of Oregon. Prior to that, she worked for nearly three years as a litigation associate in the New York office of a national law firm.

Representative Experience

Litigation

- Advised multi-national pharmaceutical company on risk exposure due to Food and Drug Administration label change notification.
- Represented multi-national technology company in attorney general investigation of cybercrime.
- Counseled manufacturers of COVID-19 countermeasures on compliance with rapidly changing federal, state, and local regulations.
- Prepared answers and motions for homeowners facing housing foreclosure via court-sponsored clinic.

Education

J.D., Cornell Law School, 2019

- Executive Editor, Journal of Law and Public Policy
- Managing Editor, Supreme Court Bulletin

B.A., University of Washington, cum laude, political science concentrating in political economy, 2006

- Member, Phi Beta Kappa

Bar Admissions

Oregon, 2025
New York, 2020