“My proactive approach to legal challenges fosters trust, ensuring that clients feel heard and empowered throughout their legal journey. With patience and understanding, I tailor solutions for clients and help navigate a path to successful and cost-effective resolutions.”

Radhika Shah is an associate on the firm’s construction and insurance recovery team. She supports general contractors, subcontractors, design professionals, and public and private owners and developers throughout the Pacific Northwest. Radhika’s experience includes guiding clients through contract negotiations, alternative dispute resolution, and, when in the best interests of clients, representing clients before state, federal, and local agencies. Radhika has additional experience with intellectual property and environmental matters.

During law school, Radhika worked at the Small Business Legal Clinic in their patent program. In 2019, she gained unique experience working as a legislative intern for Oregon Senator Michael Dembrow. Before joining Miller Nash, Radhika practiced at a law firm in Oregon.
