“As a former general counsel, I understand client needs from an insider perspective. I strive to work with clients to understand their unique needs and how a legal strategy fits into the overall goals of the organization.”

Liani Reeves is an experienced employment attorney and litigator. Throughout her career of over 20 years, Liani has worked in the public, private, and nonprofit sectors as both in-house general counsel and as outside counsel. She has represented hundreds of clients ranging from start-up businesses to the Governor of Oregon. She has extensive litigation experience, having taken numerous cases to a jury trial verdict, through arbitration, or to find a negotiated resolution. In each case, Liani works with clients to find the best strategy and outcome for each particular case and client.

Liani is often hired as an external investigator to conduct investigations into sensitive and high-profile matters, including sexual misconduct, ethics violations, and harassment and discrimination. She also conducts investigations under Title IX.

Liani also provides advice and extensive training to employers on how to comply with their legal responsibilities and works with employers on how to embrace diversity, equity, and inclusion values in the workplace. For public sector clients, she often advises on government ethics and transparency and constitutional issues.

Prior to joining Miller Nash, Liani was partner and president at an employment, labor, and employee benefits firm in the Pacific Northwest. Liani also served as the former general counsel to the Oregon Office of the Governor where she advised on a wide range of legal issues, including employment, government transparency, First Amendment issues, public safety, and government ethics. Prior to working for the Governor, she spent almost a decade as an assistant attorney general and deputy chief trial counsel for the Oregon Department of Justice Trial Division, primarily handling employment matters. Her clients included state agencies such as the Oregon Department of Corrections, Oregon’s public universities, and the Oregon State Legislature.
