“I embrace teamwork and enjoy partnering with our attorneys to achieve the best possible results for our clients. Through organization, communication, and thoroughness, I am able to make sure that our clients’ expectations are exceeded.”

Scott Hunter supports the firm’s employment law, education, and litigation practice teams, bringing nearly 20 years of experience in complex case management and legal operations. He has deep experience in document review and analysis, electronic discovery, and trial preparation, with a proven ability to manage high-stakes matters efficiently and effectively. Scott’s skill set includes conducting legal research, preparing witnesses, organizing and managing exhibits, and streamlining workflows through innovative legal technologies. He plays a vital role in ensuring litigation readiness and supporting attorneys through all phases of litigation, from pre-trial strategy to courtroom presentation.

Before joining the firm, Scott worked at a California-based law firm, where he supported attorneys across multiple practice areas including employment law, business litigation, criminal defense, and securities litigation. In that role, he was responsible for managing complex case files, mentoring junior team members, and delivering cross-functional support that ensured seamless legal operations.

Personal Activities

Scott enjoys creative writing, dabbling in artificial intelligence (AI), pool, and exploring Portland’s dynamic restaurant scene. He also adopted Sukoshi, a white Cavapoo, and the two enjoy spending time together.
