“Having focused on insolvency matters for 40 years, I have confronted almost every problem that a financially-troubled business or its various constituents can encounter. I pride myself on being focused, well-organized, and a detail-oriented problem solver. I enjoy solving complex business issues and strive to develop practical, innovative, and cost-effective strategies to achieve my clients’ business objectives.”

David Foraker focuses his practice on bankruptcy, receiverships, foreclosures, out-of-court workouts, and other matters relating to debtor-creditor relationships, as well as business transactional matters in the context of insolvent businesses. David has represented banks and other lenders, loan servicers, landlords, key vendors, asset purchasers, investors, creditors’ committees, receivers, insurance companies, and other parties affected by financially troubled businesses across a broad spectrum of industries. He has been listed in Oregon Super Lawyers for bankruptcy and creditor/debtor rights since 2006, including as a Top 10 Oregon Super Lawyer.
