“Adaptability is essential to my approach when advising clients. I strive to help clients achieve success no matter their goals, and prioritizing a flexible approach allows me to support clients in a way that best suits their needs.”

Alex Hutchinson is on the sports, entertainment & media team at Miller Nash. She provides expert guidance and counsel to NIL collectives, professional sports teams, agencies, management firms, student and professional athletes, and other individuals and businesses in the sports and entertainment industries. She also has experience in assisting with structuring NIL deals. Additionally, Alex has also gained valuable in-house expertise while working with a professional sports franchise, advising the organization’s management on a wide range of legal issues, including contract negotiations, business operations, and various one-off agreements.

In addition, Alex supports businesses in a wide range of corporate transactional and franchise matters. She reviews, drafts, and negotiates a variety of contracts, in addition to advising on issues related to mergers and acquisitions, franchise acquisition and expansion, corporate governance and formation, and partnerships. Alex has a background in securities and business litigation, giving her a unique perspective into how businesses operate and the protections needed to avoid disputes.

Before attending law school, Alex worked as a financial representative and obtained her Series 6 and Series 63 licenses. She also served as a teaching fellow in Denver Public Schools through AmeriCorps.
