

Paul Wallace

Associate

☎ 503.205.2547 📍 Portland Office
✉ paul.wallace@millernash.com

“I am committed to providing clients with thoughtful and creative solutions to their challenges. Through open communication and collaboration, I aim to tailor my services to meet each client’s specific needs and objectives.”

Paul Wallace is a member of the firm’s financial services department, with a focus on bankruptcy and creditors’ rights. Paul relies on his knowledge of debtor creditor and bankruptcy law to provide efficient and effective problem solving for clients. Paul’s experience includes assisting financial institutions and business clients with bankruptcy, collections, foreclosure, and business disputes. In addition, he has advised clients on matters including lender liability and policies, loan documentation, and workouts.

Prior to joining Miller Nash, Paul worked at a business law firm in Oregon where he represented lenders, businesses, and individuals in commercial disputes.

Professional Activities

- Oregon State Bar, Member
 - Debtor-Creditor Section, Saturday Session Planning Committee, Member, 2024-2026

Publications

- “Multilaw Collateral Snapshot (United States),” Multilaw (June 2026)

Personal Activities

Outside of the office, Paul enjoys cooking, fly fishing, and exploring the Pacific Northwest with his wife and their dog.

Education

J.D., Lewis & Clark Law School, magna cum laude, 2024

- Articles Editor, Lewis & Clark Law Review

B.A., University of Puget Sound, politics & government, 2021

Bar Admissions

Oregon, 2024
Washington, 2026

Court Admissions

U.S. Bankruptcy Court, District of Oregon, 2024

U.S. District Court, District of Oregon, 2024